SAVES CHILDREN FROM FIREY DEATH

Spectacular Orland Farm Fire Results In $25,000 Loss

In what was probably the largest and most spectacular fire in southern Cook County in recent years, the large barn on the Sunshine Acres Farm of Andrew J. Tilley, on West Ave., Orland Park, was completely destroyed last Saturday evening.

When the fire was discovered by a neighbor, Herman Gee, about 7:30 p.m. it had gained such rapid headway that the entire interior was a raging, roaring furnace of flame. The Orland Park fire department was summoned and responded promptly but it was apparent on their arrival that nothing could be done to save the building and accordingly Fire chief John Helenhouse and his men turned their entire attention to preventing the spread of the conflagration to the surrounding buildings.

The firemen were hampered in their efforts by the inability to secure an adequate water supply, as the large tanks and the electric pump which is the main water supply for the farm was located at one end of the burning building and was inaccessible because of the intense heat. Water had to be carried in buckets and cans from the house, which was several rods away from the barn. Calls were put out to all the surrounding farms requesting that water be rushed to the scene in milk cans tanks etc. However this brought little result as almost the entire population of the surrounding territory were at the scene of the fire. The flames were so bright and the conflagration so intense as to be visible as far as Mokena, and the roar and crackle of the flames could be heard in the village of Orland Park. The immense throng of sightseers, attracted by the light of the flames clogged West Ave. and all the surrounding roads and made traffic an impossibility.

The barn was an immense affair, constructed by the Godfrey Brewery Co. 35 years ago and enlarged and modernized since. Seven horses, four milk cows and two calves which were housed in the east end of the building were burned to death. However, 21 blooded steers were saved from the west end of the barn. The building also held 60 tons of hay and a large assortment of farm machinery and equipment and this was entirely destroyed. Only the fact that there was no particularly high wind, coupled with the heroic work of the Orland Fire Dept. prevented the spread of the fire to several surrounding buildings that housed chickens, hogs sheep and farm machinery.

The loss from the fire is estimated at about $25,000 which is partly covered by insurance. The cause of the fire is undetermined.

Lincoln Estates Mother Drags Tots From Burning Home

Two children were saved from a firey death thru the heroism of their mother who braved death in dragging them from their burning home. This incident occurred in the Lincoln Estates east of Frankfort last Thursday morning when the Ray Vaughn home was destroyed by fire.

Mrs. Vaughn had left her two children, a boy and girl, ill with whooping cough alone while she went to a grocery store about two blocks from her home.

After she had completed her shopping and as she was walking toward her home, she was horrified to see smoke pouring out of the place. Running as fast she could to the burning dwelling she managed to reach it just in time to save her children. Gaining entrance she was forced to crawl on her hands and knees and called to the children who fortunately had sought refuge beneath a bed from the smoke and flames. They replied to her calls and groping through the choking and blinding smoke, Mrs. Vaughn managed to drag the children and herself from the flaming home in time to prevent being trapped or injured by the flames. It is said the little girl's hair was singed.

Not a piece of clothing or any household effects were saved and the small building was quickly reduced to a heap of ashes.

Just how the fire occurred is unknown. Mrs. Vaughn was preparing for the noon meal and had left a stove burning when she left home to go to the neighborhood grocery store. The fire broke out about 11 o'clock.

Mr. Vaughn is working in Chicago and had left home early in the morning to go to work.

Lincoln Estates has no fire protection of any kind and no arrangements have ever been made with any of the nearby towns having fire trucks to furnish aid in case of fire. The one and great drawback is the lack of an adequate water supply.

HIGHLIGHTS OF ARMY NEWS

With Uncle Sam's army at its peacetime peak size and with increasing activity in military developments many stories of wide interest develop in army camps throughout the nation. Herewith are presented a series of articles depicting various phases of army activity.

The army is in the junk business—to save Uncle Sam millions of dollars.

In an out-of-way section of Philadelphia, a little group of men and women spend their work-days picking over a pile of woolen and cotton scraps. They are salvaging waste material from the cutting and piecing machines used in making millions of army uniforms. Saving these cloth scraps last year saved the government more than $1,500,000.

To provide uniforms for the army's million and a half soldiers, the quartermaster depot buys the uniform material, then sends it to manufacturers who have contracts with the army to make the soldiers' trousers, coats, shirts and other clothing. Scrap cloth that accumulates during the manufacturing process is returned to the depot, carefully sorted, baled and auctioned to the highest bidders.

The army knows to the penny how much scrap material is saved in the manufacture of each piece of clothing—coat, 10 cents' worth; overcoat, 14 cents; trousers, 5 cents; field jacket, 6 cents; field cap, 6 cent.

Army Musicians

Army musicians will soon be playing new Bell Lyra's, a variation of the glockenspiel popular in European military bands.

The instrument contains a keyboard similar to that of a piano, but is played by striking 22 metal bars with a small mallet. The tonal and harmonic effects have a tremendous carrying range and add possibilities for musical variations.

The Bell Lyra player carries the 30 by 22 inch instrument in an upright position by means of a shoulder strap. For concert work it may also be played from a stationary rack. The Bell Lyras will replace chromatic bells, now used in U. S. army bands. The new instrument can be played on the march.

Fashion Notes

Soldiers riding the iron steeds of the army's armored force are assured ample protection this winter for fingers and hands operating weapons and equipment.

A twin glove of wool and leather has just been perfected for the armored force by the quartermaster corps. The outer glove has leather palms and thumbs. An inner glove is fashioned of knitted wool. A strap fastens the twin glove's large gauntlet over overcoat sleeves to keep out cold air.

When necessary for the soldiers to adjust equipment, operate a radio or do anything which requires free movement of the fingers, the outer glove can be pulled off. The wool inner glove will still provide protection.

Motorcycle riders may soon have

For U. S. Defense

ATLANTA, GA.—Margaret Mitchell, famed author of "Gone With the Wind," is shown purchasing a United States Defense Savings Bond. In a statement which she issued when buying her bond, Miss Mitchell said: "Whether we go into war or not, we must be prepared for war. It is only common sense that in times like these every nation must be able to defend itself. I want our country to have the best ships, planes, tanks and guns—and plenty of them. If I can help by buying Defense Bonds, I am glad to do so."

Set Up Job Plan to Aid

Men on Leaving Service

WASHINGTON. — Selective service headquarters announced it had arranged for the classification of skilled workers now being discharged from the army so that they may be speedily employed.

Approximately 200,000 soldiers are to be returned to civilian life and other thousands will be released in the succeeding months provided the international situation does not compel their retention.

Blind People Can Now 'See' Plays Through Medium of Phonographic Discs

Broadway star recording play for the blind. Mady Christians, with Joseph Wolland and associate players, acting Hedda Gabler before the microphone at the sound studios of the American Foundation for the Blind, New York, N. Y., for the Talking Book production of the Ibsen play.

NEW YORK.—It is not often that blind people have the advantage over the seeing. Usually it is the other way round. The blind who live far away from Broadway, however, have a distinct edge on their seeing neighbors. As they cannot go to the theater, the theater now comes to them complete, with full sound effects and incidental music and acted by players from the Broadway stage.

The idea of giving to the many thousands of sightless citizens across the country the chance to hear the best that the contemporary theater has to offer, originated with the American Foundation for the Blind, New York city, which decided to utilize the "Talking Book" for this purpose. The book, designed to bring the best in inkprint books within reach of blind people, consists of long-playing phonographic discs on which trained readers record the works of the chosen authors. The discs are played on an electric reading machine resembling a portable phonograph.

For several years the Library of Congress has been co-operating with the foundation, and by using congressional appropriations, has met most of the cost of the majority of these recorded works, and places them in 27 regional public libraries across the country which operate departments for the blind.

Theater Co-operative. In launching its new venture of bringing acted plays to the blind, the Broadway theater was found eager to co-operate. A group of young players from contemporary successes formed the nucleus of a repertory company to which guest stars from time to time come to contribute their services. Among those lambskin lined muffs fastened on their handlebars, into which they may slip their hands, if tests now under way by the quartermaster corps prove successful.

Portable Pipe Line

Portable pipe lines that can be readily moved for installation over difficult terrain to carry gasoline supplies to motorized units in the field, have been developed recently by the army.

The new pipe line comes in self-contained half-mile units, each complete with a centrifugal pump driven by a 20-horsepower gasoline engine, according to Army Motors, the publication of the motor transport school at the Holabird quartermaster depot, Baltimore, Md. Each half mile unit can be moved by cargo trucks and used independently of any other unit.

These self-contained sections, alone or in combinations, are said to be able to deliver gasoline through swamps and forests or over mountains at a rate of approximately 200 gallons per minute. The pipe can also be used to assist or even replace floating gasoline tanks for ship-to-shore operations.

Army Food Supply

During last summer's maneuvers in Louisiana, 40 freight cars daily were necessary to bring in rations at 12 railheads for the 123,000 men in the Second army. Here is what they ate each day:

270,300 pounds of beef
202,748 pounds of bacon
81,099 pounds of potatoes
275,737 eggs
13,517 pounds of coffee
167,605 bananas, apples, oranges
Horses, too, had healthy appetites. Cavalry units consumed 33 tons of oats and 39 tons of hay daily and as for motor vehicles—nearly eight gallons of gasoline were used in each during a day's operation.

More than 10 per cent of the men walked holes into the soles of their shoes by the time the final phase of the maneuvers was reached. An emergency supply of 30,000 new pairs of shoes was kept on hand for replacement.

Railroad Fares

Army personnel traveling by rail in uniform on official leave, furlough or pass at their own expense, will benefit from reduced fares for another year. The present reduced fare arrangements made last May and due to expire this month, have been extended to October 31, 1942. H. W. Siddall, chairman of the railroad interterritorial military committee representing all of the railroads in the United States, has notified the quartermaster general.

whose work reaches the blind people of the country on the discs of the Talking Book are Dame Sybil Thorndike, Otis Skinner, Eva Le Gallienne, Mady Christians, Hilda Spong, Bert Lytell, Whitford Kane, Selena Royle, Wesley Addy, Brenda Forbes, Edith Taliaferro, Joseph Holland and House Jameson.

To date no less than 44 plays have been acted onto the discs solely for the use of the blind—an impressive list of classic and contemporary drama which includes such plays as "Elizabeth the Queen," "Ah Wilderness," "Hedda Gabler," "King Richard II," "Our Town," "When Ladies Meet," "The Silver Box," "The Rivals," and "The Bat." The playing time of all these productions corresponds with the time the blind listener would spend in an actual theater.

The average modern play runs to four or five double-sided discs, or from two to two hours and a half of playing time. The older plays, which are given without cutting, run to almost double that number. Shakespeare's "Anthony and Cleopatra" takes up seven double-sided discs, or three hours and a half of playing time.

Thanks to all that has been accomplished to date, the theater now comes in this way to the blind. It comes to them, moreover, free of all charge. The blind individual who wishes to enjoy what Broadway has to offer without leaving his armchair has only to send a list of the plays he wishes to hear to the public library nearest him, and one by one these plays reach him, each with its individual enchantment. These plays even travel between library and reader postage free.

Priorities vs. Toys —And Johnie's Sock Comes Off 2nd Best

CHICAGO.—When priorities clash with pop-guns, little Johnie and his Christmas stocking come off second best—that is if metal toys are being used to fill it this Christmas. For while many department stores throughout the country were foresighted enough to make advance purchases of scooter cars, bicycles, all metal wheel goods, and defense toys including air guns, there does exist a shortage in these items for 1941 Christmas shopping.

'Priorities vs. Toys'

No child need be toy-hungry at Christmas, despite a 20-per cent increase in demand this year over last. It is expected that the nation's toy bill will reach an all-time high of a quarter of a billion dollars this year, according to a report of the Merchandise Mart, Chicago, Ill.

Reflecting our national armament program, military toys and games are more popular than ever, despite mass production handicaps. Toyland arsenals include dive bombers, anti-aircraft guns, defense forts, Red Cross ambulances, trucks and airplanes of all varieties. Similarly slanted are many non-metal war games and books featuring life in army camps.

Manufacturers of miniature railroad trains and equipment, directly affected by priority rulings, report a 10 per cent increase in demand. A record number of the nation's 150,000 perennial train hobbyists, anticipating shortages and substitutions are sending their old equipment back to the factory for reconditioning and repair.

Toys classified as educational are in sharp demand. Reproductions in miniature of the advancement in the home maker's art, science and engineering, are all in evidence on the nation's counters.

U. S. to Build Huge Concrete Barges to Aid Emergency Shipping Situation . . . Health in Britain Reported Better Than Before War . . .

(Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.)

WASHINGTON.—The size of the new concrete barges just contracted for by the U. S. maritime commission staggers not only the layman, but old-time shipping men. They are to be approximately 350 feet long, with 54 feet beam. When it is considered that none of the interiors of these huge hulls will be occupied by the engines, boilers, etc., which take up so much room in an ordinary ship a better picture of their carrying capacity can be obtained.

Fifteen of these huge barges are to be built. The contracts call for their delivery in 1942.

In explaining the awards, the maritime commission says: "These contracts are the result of the commission's decision to adopt an experimental program which would provide additional bulk cargo bottoms without using shipbuilding steel. Reinforcing steel will be used so that the regular shipbuilding steel supply will be reserved for construction of cargo ships, tankers and naval vessels."

"The program was adopted as a form of insurance in the interests of future exigencies and overall national defense."

Idea Is Not New

There is nothing new about the concrete ship idea. It was tried enthusiastically during World War No. 1, though not with particularly happy results.

However, the wooden ships built in that war also received plenty of criticism, and were burned, after years of being guarded—rather ineffectively, for everything of value apparently had been stolen when the final decision to burn was made.

Now the government would give a great deal if those ships had not been burned. They could be made very useful, for, strange as it may seem, good wooden bottoms deteriorate very slowly.

One element, as has been told in these dispatches, has been clamoring for concrete ships—or barges—since the realization that shipping was of the essence in this war, as it was in the last—but without much success. The new feature about concrete ships, since the last war, is a process which results in very much greater strength and greater speed in construction.

It is contended that, once construction has been started, and the government is sure just what it wants in the way of these huge barges, there is no limit to the construction possibilities. The great advantage, assuming that they are found to be practical, is that their construction would interfere practically not at all with the construction of more orthodox ships. Skilled steel workers and machinists would not be needed, importantly. Even more vital, steel would be used very sparingly, and not, as the commission points out, of a quality suited for regular ships.

The vessels, if they can be called that, would also not clog up existing ship yards. They would not clutter up a single way on which other ships could be built.

War Conditions

'Aid' British Health

With the "Four Horsemen" in mind, people have been expecting some sort of pestilence in Europe as a result of the war, with undernourished bodies unable to fight disease. Reports from Spain indicate that the expected has happened there, thus increasing the foreboding for other parts of Europe.

In contrast, we have the cheering fact that health in Britain, far from having sagged as a result of the war, has actually improved as compared with the year immediately preceding the outbreak of war, 1938.

This is not the impression of some casual visitor. It is not the mere impression of anybody. It is based on cold statistics—health reports covering every community from Land's End to the Tip of Scotland.

Resistance to disease, beyond any doubt, has increased with war conditions. Just why is a matter for debate. There can be no argument about the number of deaths per thousand; there can be very little about the percentage of any given disease reported, nor the spread or failure to spread of epidemics. But there can be plenty of difference of opinion over what CAUSED the change, whether it be improvement or otherwise.

The best obtainable opinion, delegates to the International Labor conference recently held in Washington seemed to think, is the fact that reduced rations has brought about certain social reforms—for example luncheons for school children. With the whole country, as well as the government, worried about the effects of the necessary rationing on health, there has been more attention paid to particular cases where lack of proper nutrition might invite disease.

THE NATURE AND WORK OF THE CHURCH

LESSON TEXT—Acts 2:41-47; Ephesians 4:11-16.
GOLDEN TEXT—Christ also loved the church, and gave himself for it.—Ephesians 5:25.

The church, which is so much the center of life for Christians, is not as well understood as it should be. We have come to regard it as just one organization among many competing for the attention and interest of men, when it is really a divine, living organism established by Christ as His Body and representing Him in this world. Our lesson presents significant truth for both study and teaching. The church is

I. A Fellowship of Believers (Acts 2:41-47)

The church is made up of those who are saved (v. 47), those who have received the Word by faith and witnessed a good confession of their faith in Christ (v. 41). This is a fact to be remembered in a time when there is so much laxness in receiving members into the church. It is not a religious or social club. It is not a rallying place for those who wish to work for some economic, political, or social project. It is not a gathering of good people who wish to share common interests.

The church needs to cleanse its rolls of all unbelievers, all hangers-on, and get back to the purity which it had when only those were received who were manifestly "added" by the Lord (v. 47).

Such folk have many interests which bind them together in fellowship, devotion, and service. The early church was interested in sound doctrinal teaching (v. 42), an excellent thing. They had fellowship in prayer (v. 42); we need that too. They had gladness of heart (v. 46); we do not need a renewal of the song of the Lord in our midst?

They had such fervent love for each other that they established a communal system of sharing with one another, something which God had never commanded and which apparently failed with them, for it was later abandoned. But the point is that they really did love each other and thus showed their true discipleship (see lesson of last Sunday).

II. A Center of Christian Ministry (Eph. 4:11)

The church is God's chosen depository for spiritual gifts, among them being the special ministries mentioned here. The Holy Spirit calls men as He chooses. Blessed is the church which recognizes His choice of teachers, evangelists, preachers, and leaders and gives them liberty to serve the Lord in their calling.

It is God who calls men for these various activities in His vineyard. Self-appointed or man-chosen leaders and preachers are destined to fail, but God's men may be assured of His blessing and power.

III. A Place of Spiritual Growth (Eph. 4:12-16)

The purpose of the gifts of the Spirit is the edifying and building up of believers. A church should always be evangelistic in its efforts. The pastor should be a soul-winner, but essentially his ministry is to so edify and instruct believers that they may go out and win others to Christ.

Verses 13 to 16 tell us how this "perfecting of the saints" moves forward. There is unity of the faith and a growth in knowledge, a steadiness which keeps believers from being led astray by error or the cleverness of men. Thus kept from drifting, and being steadily enriched in knowledge of the truth, the believer grows up to spiritual manhood.

Do not miss the beauty and helpfulness of verses 15 and 16. Like the body "fitly framed and knit together," the church of Christ is to be a perfectly co-ordinated organism, every member performing its perfect service in building up the body in love for the glory of its Head—Christ.

This figure of the Church as the body of Christ and the working together of the members for the glory of the Head is further developed in I Corinthians 12, which the reader is urged to consider, especially verses 12 to 27.

Watching to See

With the Christian who takes the deep true view of his religion as a guide in all earthly matters, material or spiritual, there is never any feverish, blind-alley skirmishing in the face of threatened ill. He just waits vigilantly, trustfully, upon God, ready to do His will the moment it is made clear to him. "I will watch to see what He will say to me." Watching to see! In those telling words lies the whole secret of the thing that mystifies non-religious folk so completely—the inviolate calm and courage with which real Christians meet the worst adversities that can befall them in the world.

'Texas' of Brazil

Rio Grande do Sul, the most southern of Brazil's 20 states, is known as the Texas of Brazil because it is that country's leading cattle raising state. Although it is only one-third the size of Texas, it has twice as many head of cattle, and the pampas in the southwestern part of the state, lying in a temperate climate, make grazing possible every month in the year. Rio Grande do Sul also produces one-fifth of Brazil's porkers, more sheep than all the other Brazilian states combined.

WINTER DROUGHT

in your home

New Republic Gas Humidifier

vitalizes parched air with gallons of needed moisture

WINTER AIR contains less moisture than summer air, and when artificially heated in the home, it becomes even more dry, producing "Winter Drought" in unprotected homes. Often, as a result, doors shrink, floors warp and creak, furniture comes apart at the joints, the backs of cherished books begin to loosen, and rugs and draperies lose resiliency. But, perhaps worst of all, parched winter air is uncomfortable. Makeshift methods of introducing moisture into homes suffering from "Winter Drought" have never been satisfactory.

The scientifically-designed REPUBLIC HUMIDIFIER has been thoroughly tested by our engineers for the maintenance of properly moistened air during winter months throughout the entire home. It supplies as much as 11 gallons of moisture a day in the form of an invisible vapor.

There are no pans to fill... no sprays or steam jets to worry about. It's a simple, self-contained, gas-operated device that works automatically and independently of your regular heating unit. Just install it in your basement and forget it. Because it provides proper humidity throughout the home, a feeling of warmth and comfort can often be achieved with lower room temperatures.

If you want to put real comfort-giving moisture in your home this winter, inspect the advantages of the perfected REPUBLIC HUMIDIFIER. It will put an end to "Winter Drought" in your home once and forever—as it has in the case of many enthusiastic owners; and it costs surprisingly little to operate... Don't forget this Friday, December 5 is the night of the Rib Roast dinner to be given at the Palos Community church on 88th Ave., sponsored by the Men's Club. This is an annual affair and has always been successful. For a real good meal, we'll be seeing you at the church.

Christmas Baking Begins With Luscious Fruit Cake!
(See Recipes Below.)

Holiday Fare

Christmas is something pretty special, I'm sure you'll agree, and as such deserves something pretty special in the way of food. To my notion the fruit cakes and plum puddins are that special something with their handsome brown, fruity richness and delectable flavors.

The charm of both these kinds of delicacies lies in their ripened, mellowed flavors which come only with proper aging when the spices, fruits, nuts and butter blend themselves into mysterious goodness. So bake the fruit cakes and puddings in advance and give them a chance to acquire their best in flavor.

While you're about the big business of making a fruit cake, bake several small cakes in small glass or pottery dishes to give as gifts. Gaily decorated with sprigs of holly and mistletoe and holiday ribbons they make a perfect gift.

Dark Fruit Cake. (Yields 10 to 12 pounds)

- 12 eggs
- 4 cups sifted flour
- 2 cups butter
- 1 pound brown sugar
- 2 pounds raisins
- 2 pounds currants
- 1 pound pecans
- 1 pound citron
- 1 pound almonds
- 1 teaspoon each, nutmeg, cinnamon, mace
- ¼ cup lemon juice
- ¼ cup canned peach juice
- 6-ounce glass jelly (blackberry, currant or grape)
- ½ cup cream

Wash and dry raisins and currants. Blanch almonds, drain and cut with pecans into quarters. Cut citron into thin slices. Place fruit in large mixing bowl. Sift flour, measure and sift with spices and mix with fruits until well-coated. Cream butter and sugar, add beaten eggs and jelly. Stir in flour and fruit alternately with fruit juice first, then cream.

Line pans with heavy waxed paper and butter slightly. Fill pans almost to the top. Bake small loaf cakes 3 to 3½ hours at 275 degrees. Bake large loaf cakes 4 to 4½ hours at 250 degrees. Cool.

Cool cakes on a rack. When cool, wrap in heavy waxed paper and store tightly.

If you prefer the lighter fruit cakes, why not try this less rich but just as elegant cousin of the Dark Fruit Cake:

Light Fruit Cake. (Makes 3½ to 4 pounds)

- 1¼ pounds mixed crystallized fruits (cherries, pineapple, etc.)
- ¼ pound mixed lemon, orange, citron peels
- ¼ pound blanched, chopped almonds
- 18 maraschino cherries
- ½ cup diced preserved ginger
- 2½ cups flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder

LYNN SAYS:

Christmas wouldn't be Christmas if you didn't have good things like fruit cake and plum puddin' on hand. But since these take lots of time to make, plan to be in the process of making them for several days so one day won't tire you out.

Fruits and nuts can be cut and chopped several days in advance since they usually involve considerable time.

When putting the batter in the pans be sure that the corners are well filled with batter so you'll get a nice looking cake or pudding.

Store the cake or pudding in a cool dry place. Have it tightly covered preferably in a tin container. Sound apples may be kept in the container itself to keep cake or pudding moist, but must be replaced if they become decayed or shriveled.

THIS WEEK'S MENU

- Clear Vegetable Broth
- Lamb Shanks
- Mashed Potatoes
- Grated Carrot-Pineapple Salad
- Muffins
- Beverage
- Queen's Bread Pudding

- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup margarine
- 1 cup sugar
- 8 egg whites
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice

Cut fruits and peels in thin slices. Mix cherries and ginger with 1 cup flour and toss lightly. Cream margarine with ½ cup sugar. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt and beat into batter. Add flour and fruit.

and mix thoroughly. Add lemon juice to egg whites and beat until stiff. Add remaining sugar and beat until smooth. Fold into batter. Turn into greased tube pans lined with waxed paper and bake in a slow (325 degree) oven for 3 hours.

To my mind there's nothing quite so festive as the plum pudding brought flaming to the table, and served with a rich sauce.

Plum Pudding. (Makes 3½ pounds)

- 1 cup suet
- 1 cup molasses
- 2 cups bread crumbs
- 3 eggs, unbeaten
- 1 cup raisins
- 1 cup currants
- 1 cup flour
- 1 teaspoon each, cinnamon, nutmeg, cloves
- 1 tablespoon flavoring
- 1 cup milk
- 1 teaspoon soda

Mix well the suet and molasses. Add bread crumbs and mix in eggs one at a time. Add raisins and currants mixed with the flour and spices, then flavoring. Mix in milk and soda dissolved in 1 cup boiling water. Grease mold, put in pudding ¾ full and seal tight. Place in kettle of boiling water on a trivet or a rack and have the water come half way around the mold. Steam for three hours. Serve hot.

An excellent dessert for Christmas time or winter time is this old-fashioned suet pudding much akin to the plum pudding:

Suet Pudding. (Serves 10)

- 1 cup suet, chopped fine
- 1 cup molasses
- 1 cup bread crumbs
- ¼ cup evaporated milk, mixed with
- ¼ cup water
- 1½ cups flour
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup raisins or currants or preserved fruit

Mix all dry ingredients together, add fruit, then suet and milk. Turn into greased pudding mold, cups or cans, cover tightly with greased paper or fitted covers. Place on a rack in a kettle of boiling water which comes half way up to the molds. Cover kettle and steam 3 hours if in a mold, or 1 hour if in cups. Serve with hard sauce or Plum Pudding Sauce.

Sauce is to pudding as stuffing is to the turkey so make it good. For steamed puddings a hard sauce flavored with whatever you desire is excellent. If you'd like a hot, golden-hued sauce, meltingly delicious here's one that's tops:

Plum Pudding Sauce.

- ¼ cup butter
- 1 cup powdered sugar
- 2 tablespoons cider or
- 1 tablespoon other flavoring
- 2 eggs
- ½ cup rich milk

Cream butter and powdered sugar. Add cider or flavoring, then well-beaten egg yolks. When well mixed, stir in milk. Cook in double boiler until thick as custard, then gradually pour in beaten egg whites, beating constantly.

BUILDING ANYTHING, MISTER?
SPAB has ruled that no new public or private building may be started unless it is essential to the health and safety of the country. Pop, there goes that idea of a new two-car garage!

The government must save all "critical material" for the war. Critical material is almost everything from the blueprint to the architect's bill.

The man who has just dug a cellar for anything may find he is just the custodian of a hole for the duration of the war.

Director Donald M. Nelson says that if you have a building partly finished he will try to take you out of your position in mid-air, but it is more than likely that the man with a house only 50 per cent finished will save himself a lot of trouble by just putting a sign "Opened by Mistake" on the whole project.

This is an all-out war and it appears to be leaving the building all out of most everything from cellar door hinges to lightning rods.

"Is the construction directly necessary for national defense, or for the health and safety of the civilian population?" This is the test question Washington asks. How are you going to make a new country home fit into that?

In fact, how are you going to make a garage fit?

Almost everything is necessary to defense, including those bronze door-knockers and the bathtub faucets.

"The House That Jack Built" is becoming the Bungalow That Nelson Stopped.

Mr. Nelson says the restrictions will halt "pork barrel" projects. The answer to that is "Wanna bet?"

He will have his work cut out for him trying to convince a congressman that the new power dam at Corns Valley isn't essential to the safety of the country and that the deluxe post office in Cribbage Hollow isn't vital to the health of every politician involved.

Some questions and answers issued by the SPAB to explain the situation include:

Q.—If I were building a 10-story building and had four stories up could I get material to finish it?

A.—Very likely, yes.
Q.—If only an excavation existed?

A.—It would be a tossup.

And the builder would be "He who gets tossed."

AS MA GOOSE MIGHT PUT IT

This is the house that Jack built.

This is the architect that planned the house that Jack built.

This is the builder retained by the architect that planned the house that Jack built.

This is the stuff they needed for the cellar and the second floor.

This is the owner (oh, sad is he!) Who got word from S.P.A.B. He couldn't get stuff needed for the cellar and the second floor.

You can go on from here. All it takes is imagination.

LINE ON LONGEVITY

(An average life span of 550 years is attainable if conditions in the body at the age of 10 years are retained, according to a professor in the Columbia university school of medicine.—News item.)

Consider, please, the child of ten, Whose bodily condition's A miracle to learned men, Professors and physicians, Who say that if we could retain This stamina and vigor, Five hundred years we might remain, And somewhat more, they figure.

But I have watched a child at play, From morning until night time, And wearily I now must say That threescore ten is quite time.

—Richard Armour.

There is a 5 per cent tax on all railroad, plane and boat tickets now, and one hesitates to think what this must mean to Mrs. Roosevelt.

Commuters are excepted. This is the first instance in history where a commuter got any consideration whatever.

Roach powders are now hit by priorities. An ingredient is needed in munitions. Well, if the insecticide man goes after Hitler we'll take care of the situation around our own kitchen sink.

Prunes, stuffed with cottage or cream cheese and put in the refrigerator early in the day make a perfect salad ingredient for dinner.

Clothes moths eat only animal fabrics, such as wool, hair, fur, feathers, and articles made from these materials. Therefore, these articles need protection when not in use. But moths do not attack cotton, linen, rayon, or other fabrics made from vegetable fibers, nor do they touch silks.

Cigarettes and smoking tobacco have moved rapidly to the forefront as ideal Christmas gifts with Camels as America's favorite cigarette and Prince Albert Smoking Tobacco, the world's largest-selling smoking tobacco, well to the fore. The beauty of these gifts for smokers lies in the fact that their cost is modest and their welcome always assured. Local dealers have been featuring Camels in the carton of ten packs of "20's" and a special gift of four "flat fifties." Prince Albert is available in the humidifier specially wrapped for Christmas giving.—Adv.

No. Z3937

A WALKING duck, a hopping rabbit, clown ring toss toy and owl bookends—all come from your workshop to make some child happy. Each is traced to wood, cut out with jig, coping or keyhole saw and painted. Off center wheels make the rabbit hop merrily—feet on a disc turning inside make the resplendent duck walk when pushed. The clown's long nose is an excellent target for catching the ring on the end of the string.

No. Z3937, 15 cents, brings cutting outlines and directions for all four items. Send your order to:

this good old reliable way

At the first sign of the Dionne Quintuplets catching cold—their chests and throats are rubbed with Musterole—a product made especially to promptly relieve distress of colds and resulting bronchial and croupy coughs.

The Quints have always had expert care, so mother—be assured of using just about the BEST product made when you use Musterole. It's more than an ordinary "salve"—Musterole helps break up local congestion!

Dominion Over Self

You can never have a greater or a less dominion than that over yourself.—Leonardo Da Vinci.

FOR WOMEN ONLY!

If you suffer from monthly cramps, headache, backache, nervousness and distress of "irregularities"—caused by functional monthly disturbances—try Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—famous for relieving pain and nervous feelings of women's "difficult days." Taken regularly—Lydia Pinkham's Compound helps build up resistance against such annoying symptoms. Follow label directions. WORTH TRYING!

Characterized by Actions
Noble blood is an accident of fortune, noble actions characterize the great.—Goldoni.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!
